Leipzig's HHL Awarded Top Ranks in The Economist's MBA Ranking

Renowned business journal The Economist awarded highest scores to the MBA program offered by HHL Leipzig Graduate School of Management in its latest ranking. According to the rating, HHL's full-time MBA program ranks 4th in Germany, 23rd in Europe and 84th worldwide.

Placing 2nd in Germany, HHL achieved a particularly good result in the alumni rating of career service throughout their studies. According to the survey, the career and personality developers at Germany's first business school are among the top 10 in Europe, ranking eighth. Worldwide, they are represented in the top 50 (ranked 47th). In the category that captures the students' further career path, HHL also climbed to the top. HHL students have high chances of receiving a job offer within just three months of graduation. This fact also earned HHL 2nd place in Germany. Furthermore, HHL excels in salary development, placing within the top 3 in Germany, 11th in Europe, and ranking in the top 50 globally (48th) as well.

HHL Leipzig Graduate School of Management is a university-level institution with the right to award doctoral and post-doctoral degrees and ranks among the leading international business schools with a focus on entrepreneurship. The goal of the oldest business school in Germany is to educate responsible, entrepreneurially minded and capable leaders. HHL stands out for its excellent teaching, its clear research focus, its effective knowledge transfer into practice as well as its outstanding student services. In 2021, Stifterverband für die Deutsche Wissenschaft (Donors' Association for the Promotion of Humanities and Sciences in Germany) ranked HHL as the best entrepreneurial university for the fifth time in a row. Over the last three decades, HHL has produced more than 350 startup businesses which have created over 50,000 jobs. HHL was the first German private business school to be accredited by the internationally renowned AACSB and has since achieved this quality status four times in a row.
