Working as a military CEO at that time, my decision for the MBA at HHL was the perspective of a valuable network and the chance to exchange practical knowledge with other experienced leaders of different branches in a multinational environment and to expand my knowledge by high-class lecturers from all over the world. But my expectations were far exceeded. Studying at HHL prepares experienced leaders for higher duties no matter which branch they belong to. The perfect mix of known lecturers, highly heterogeneous classes and an exemplary familiar environment makes this business school unique.
